

Court Management for Tribal Judges and Personnel

The efficient administration of modern tribal justice systems requires a team of competent court personnel with the knowledge and skills to conduct a complex array of activities. This course will enhance the ability of judges and court administrators to evaluate the performance of their court in key performance areas (such as budgeting, calendaring, case management, and personnel administration) and develop practical approaches for making improvements. Judges and court administrators or court clerks responsible for court operations and management are encouraged to attend.

During this course, you will learn to:

- Identify the jurisdictional quandaries of Indian Country;
  - Explain administrative functions for which judges are responsible;
  - Determine how court administration impacts the court clerk's office;
  - Identify standards for proper handling of all court records;
  - Explain what a budget is and identify different budget objectives;
  - Recognize techniques for managing trials;
  - Recognize the benefits of enhanced procedural fairness;
  - Improve customer service and public access in your court;
- and more.
